

Bunny Basics!

Food

Rabbits, like all pets, need a balanced diet that meets all their nutritional needs. Here's what you need to know about feeding your bunny friend:

MYTH

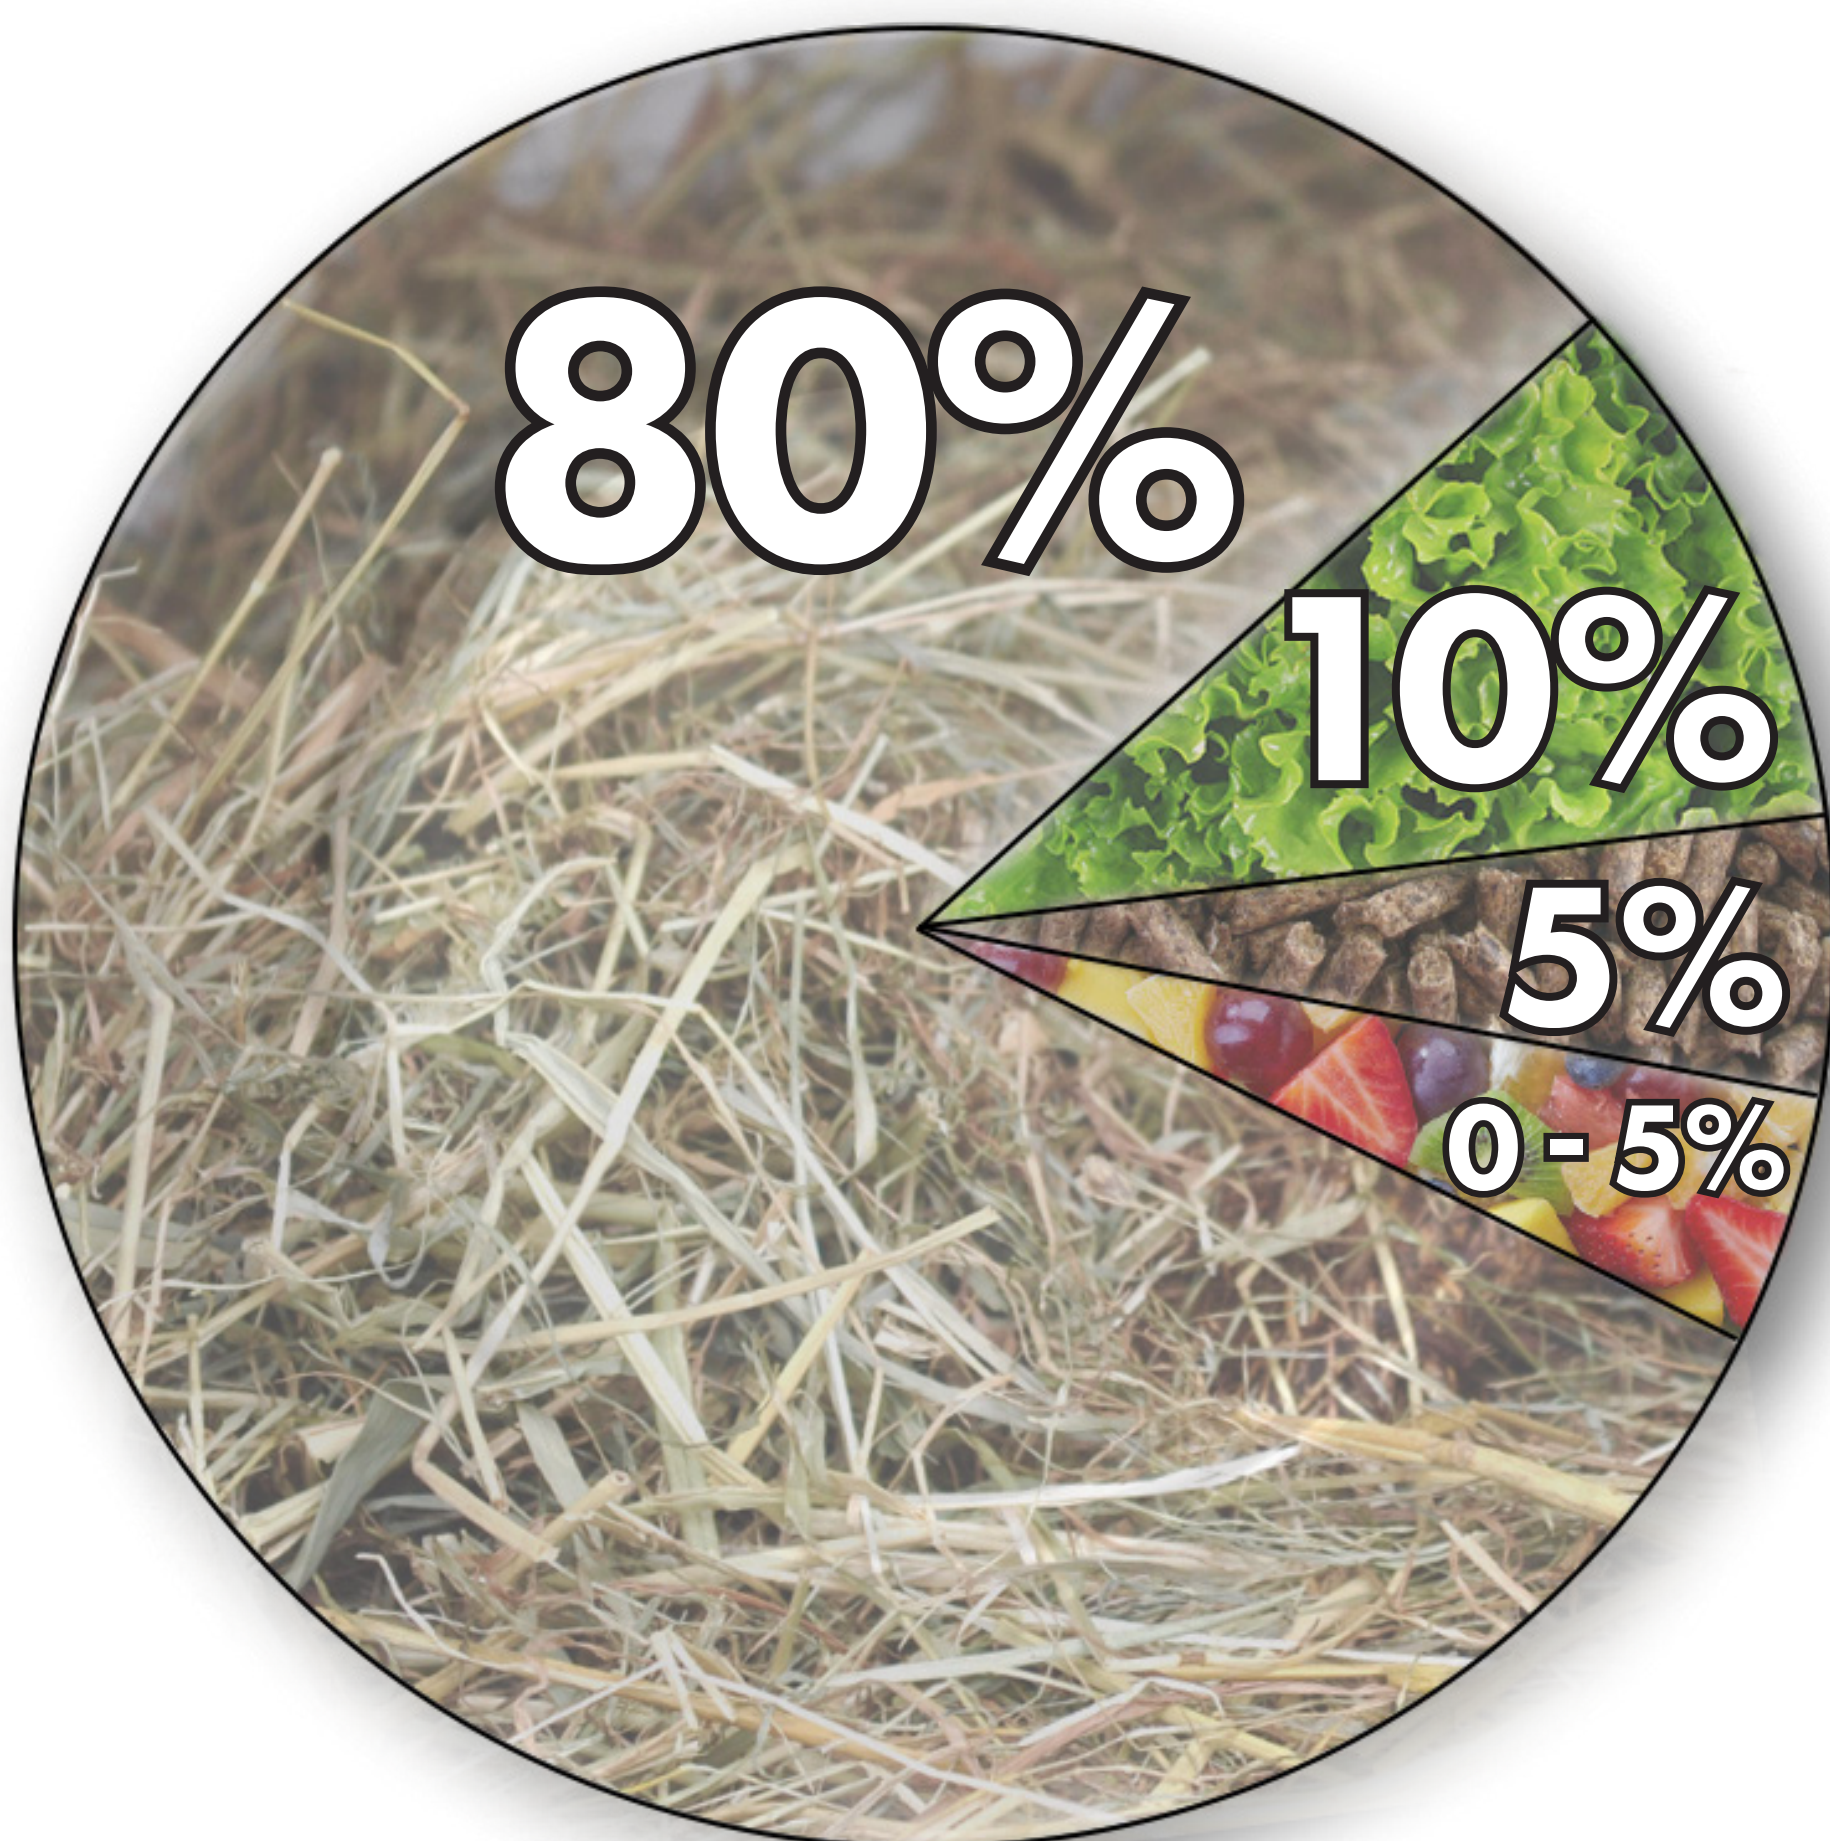

Rabbits only eat carrots

FACT

Carrots should only be given on occasion as they are sugary treats. There's much more that goes into a rabbit's diet!

WHAT'S ON YOUR RABBIT'S PLATE?

HAY

Grass hay should be available to your bunny at all times (unlimited). It's essential for their health and helps maintain their teeth.

VEGGIES

A variety of fresh, leafy greens and vegetables are essential for a rabbit's diet. Avoid iceberg lettuce.

PELLETS

A small amount of rabbit pellets should be fed daily. Ask your veterinarian what type of pellet is best for your bunny.

TREATS

Rabbits will skip their healthy food for treats if given the chance. Feed a small amount of treats (including fruits) for enrichment!

WATER

Your rabbit needs to have access to water at all times. Whether in a bowl or a bottle, make sure to clean and fill it regularly.

Ready to feed your new best friend?

Click here to see all adoptable rabbits!

